Malta's AquaBioTech Group was nominated as a National Champion for Malta in the European Business Awards, which is Europe's largest business competition set up to celebrate business excellence and best practice in the European business community.

The awards, now in their 10th year, are supported by business leaders, academics and political representatives from across Europe, and this year engaged with more than 33,000 businesses from 34 countries.

AquaBioTech Group has been chosen after the first phase of judging by an independent panel.

"We're very proud to be selected to represent Malta as a National Champion and chosen for the Innovation Award," said George D. Mantas, business development director of AquaBioTech Group.

"The European Business Awards are widely recognized as they showcase Europe's most dynamic companies and we are proud to be recognized at this level."

The next round finds AquaBioTech Group competing with another 54 companies across the EU to the European final for the Innovation Award category.

Separately, in a two-stage public vote, the corporate videos of all the awarded businesses will be hosted on the European Business Awards website, and the company who receives the most votes in their country will become the National Public Champion.
